

It will be 2 years ago the first week of May that my dear husband, Dan was diagnosed with Non-Hodgkins Lymphoma. Needless to say this was not what we planned on for our retirement years together. At the time Bill was beginning a series on believing God for ALL His promises. We cling to God daily and pray for continual increasing faith to KNOW He is healing him.

Early on Dan asked me if I believed God would heal him. In all honesty I told him I believed He COULD heal Him, but was not sure He would. Dan then said something that really took me back. He said "Then I don't want you praying for me." He explained that he only wanted people who had the faith to believe He would heal him, to be praying. It was then that I began a deep search of God's promises and asked for more faith to believe. As Bill would put it, I wanted to make the "paradigm shift" that was necessary. I am a registered nurse who did research and knew the statistics. I have much of the world's wisdom and teaching regarding health issues. I needed God's wisdom.

God showed me in His word that it IS His desire for ALL to be whole, healthy and healed. It is not for us to try to understand why this does not always happen. He also showed me He is not a God of the world's statistics! With the many wonderful believing, praying friends we have here, and on the mainland God has blessed us in many ways. Our faith is increasing daily. Two years later Dan feels great and he has had NO treatments at all. Please praise our Jehovah Rapha with us. He IS the God who "heals all of our diseases"!

In love, JAN
